Born and raised in Sumter, South Carolina, he grew up singing in church choir and praise bands. Lewis eventually moved to Charleston, where he began performing his first live shows and presenting his own music to a new crowd.

Lewis currently lives in Nashville, Tennessee, where he spends his time writing and working on new music. He travels and performs all over the country with his band The Escorts, including festival performances like Stagecoach and regular appearances in Key West. Blessed to play shows with friends and family including Lee Brice, Tyler Farr, Granger Smith, The Cadillac 3, American Young and more; he has been able to spread his original music in front of attentive audiences nationwide and grow his continuously rising group of fans.

Lewis first made headlines with 2010's "Ordinary Girl," co-written with Dallas Rogers, and marked his first appearance on the Mediabase and iTunes Country charts. He appeared in CMT's first season of "Can You Duet," coming in 8th place with his partner. Showcasing his versatile talents, Lewis also took on the lead role of the music video for "I Drive Your Truck," 2014's ACM Song of the Year performed by his brother Lee Brice.

Lewis's debut self-titled EP, produced by himself and his brother Lee Brice, was released via Pump House Music on July 14th, 2017 to glowing reviews, landing at No. 11 on the US iTunes Country chart. Since then, Lewis has been named one of Rolling Stone Country's "New Country Artists You Need to Know" and Billboard's "Country Artists to Watch in 2018". Tracks from the EP were featured on SiriusXM The Highway, CMT Music, and Spotify's New Boots & Wild Country playlists, and its lead single 'Best Ex Ever' reached the Top 40 of MusicRow's Country Breakout radio chart.

The next chapter of Lewis's music was unveiled on November 23rd, 2018 as the first single from his forthcoming second collection of songs, titled 'Blessed', was introduced to the world by a special Thanksgiving acoustic performance premiere with his brother Lee Brice.
